Economics (/ ˈk ɒ n ɒ m ɪ k s, i ˈk -/) is the social science that studies the production, distribution, and consumption of goods and services. Economics focuses on the behaviour and interactions of economic agents and how economies work. An industrial policy of a country, sometimes denoted IP, is its official strategic effort to encourage the development and growth of part or all of the manufacturing sector as well as other sectors of the economy. Description: The Journal of Industrial Economics was founded to promote and publish the analysis of modern industry and it has a truly international circulation and spread of contributors.
